

MASONS TO CONDUCT PHYSICIAN'S FUNERAL

Dr. J. B. Mullins, Who Dies Suddenly, Will Be Buried in Baltimore.

STOOD VERY HIGH IN HIS PROFESSION

Came to Washington Ten Years Ago—Was of Southern Parentage.

Funeral services for Dr. John Bailey Mullins, one of the best known physicians of Washington, who died suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy at his residence 1431 Rhode Island avenue northwest, will be held from the residence tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. The Rev. R. H. McKim, of the Church of the Epiphany, will officiate at the services which will be under the auspices of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, Masons, of which Dr. Mullins was past master.

The body will be escorted to Baltimore by Masonic orders of this city, where it will be met by the Millington Lodge, No. 166, A. F. A. M., and interred in Loudon Park cemetery.

The pallbearers will be Clarence Barnard, William M. Barton, John G. Williams, Frank Tipton, Dr. L. Fleet Luckett, Dr. William E. Whitson, Dr. Rozell Berryman, and Dr. A. Barnes Hoe. Until the time of his sudden death, Dr. Mullins had enjoyed the best of health.

Wednesday night he invited a party of physicians to accompany him on an automobile ride and returned to his home in the best of spirits. Yesterday morning while in his room, he was suddenly stricken with a stroke of apoplexy and fell to the floor. He retained consciousness and called for assistance. Dr. Luckett, a neighboring physician, was called, but Dr. Mullins soon lapsed into unconsciousness from which he never revived.

Dr. Mullins was born in Princess Anne county, Va. He was a graduate of the University of Maryland and for many years was a practicing physician of Baltimore. Upon the death of his wife, ten years ago, he moved to Washington, and subsequently became one of the best known physicians of this city. Dr. Mullins was a specialist in laryngology and otology and on the staff of the Emergency Hospital.

In Many Societies.
He was a member of the District Medical Society, the Washington Medical Association, the National Medical Association, the Washington Chemical Society, and the American Society of Laryngology and Otology. In addition to his medical affiliations, Dr. Mullins had been prominently identified with Masonic orders of this city. He was also one of the charter members of the University Club. Dr. Mullins was forty-two years old, and was a member of a prominent Southern family. His father, Col. John Mullins, was an officer in the United States Army and afterwards in the Confederate Army. A daughter, Miss Virginia Mullins, a student in a Washington seminary, survives.

VIZIER'S OVERTHROW YOUNG TURKS' AIM

Clash Expected in Parliament Over Removal of Ministers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 12.—A complete change in the personnel of the Turkish administration is today imminent, as a result of the debate, scheduled to take place in parliament tomorrow, over Grand Vizier Kiamil Pasha's removal and the removal of the ministers of war and marine.

The Young Turks, who have forced the interpellations, are now convinced that Turkey's continuance as a constitutional power depends on the immediate overthrow of Kiamil Pasha.

They admit they had intended to establish a temporary military dictatorship to overthrow the present ministry, the discovery of which intention forced Kiamil Pasha to make the cabinet changes.

Dictatorship Plans.

This dictatorship was to have been under the control of Yussuf Izzet Din Pasha. All Riza Pasha, the deposed minister of war, and Hussein Pasha, former minister of marine, were to have lent their assistance.

Heretofore Kiamil Pasha has been considered a conservative type of the progressive party, but he is now charged with being a pronounced reactionary. Kiamil's coup on Wednesday has given him temporary control of the military power of the country, frustrating the attempt to establish a dictatorship. It is not believed possible for him to retain this power in the event of an adverse vote in parliament tomorrow, which the Young Turks are confident of obtaining.

Struggle to Be Fierce.

The debate promises to be one of the fiercest ever held in Turkey, and the outcome is considered doubtful. Hassan Felmy, president of the council, has resigned as a result of the acute situation, and the ministers of justice, interior, and finance declare that they will resign tonight.

The committee of union and progress, commonly known as the Young Turks, and the Liberal Union, another of the reform bodies, are in open clash. Kiamil is accused of siding with the latter.

LARGE CLUB HOUSE DESTROYED BY FIRE

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 12.—Fire has destroyed the Blooming Grove Club house, near Blooming Grove, Pike county.

The club was one of the largest hunting and fishing lodges in the State. Among its members were many sportsmen from New York and Philadelphia.

NAVY CRITICS PLEASED BY COMMITTEE PLAN

Scheme to Have Commission Will Receive the Approval of Congress, It Is Believed Now—Who the Members May Be—Economy Necessary.

By JOHN SNURE.

Naval critics are greatly pleased over the decision of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs to provide for a commission to investigate the Navy Department.

They expect to see Congress approve of the plan and say it cannot fail to bring about important reforms, both in a business way and in a military way. It is assumed among naval officers, who have been actively urging reform that the inquiry proposed is going to be a thorough and sweeping one. The commission which the Senate Naval Committee has provided for bids fair to be a strong committee and one that will not rest content with any perfunctory inquiry.

The commission proposes the appointment of six of its members by the President, with six members from Congress. Under the provision empowering the President to select three rear admirals, it is deemed likely such men as Rear Admiral Mahan and Rear Admiral Luce, both in favor of important reforms and having the fullest confidence of the navy, will be named. It is true, the naval bill has not yet been passed, but thus far there has not been manifested any sign of serious opposition to the proposed investigation by a commission.

Who President May Name.

Doubtless, too, the President will name such men as Paul Morton and Justice Moody, former Secretaries of the Navy, on the civilian end of the commission, if given the opportunity.

It is pretty well understood that the action of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee in providing for a commission is a direct result of the incessant agitation for reform in the Navy Department which have been kept up for two or three years and even longer than that.

Senator Hale, chairman of Naval Affairs, has been slow to take up with navy reform, but the naval critics now think he has been won over. It is supposed Senator Hale will want to be a member of the commission, although he will not be chairman of the Naval Affairs Committee when the Senate committee are organized in the next session, when he will become head of Appropriations.

From the Congress and the matter of economy in administration of the navy is the thing that looms up largest.

But the naval officers who want reform view the military side of the navy organization as most important.

What they want is an organization that will make the best showing in case of war. That there will be strong pressure for a navy general staff from the committee is not doubted.

Pressure for the wiping out of some of the existing bureaus is more likely to come from Congress and any civilians who may be on the proposed commission.

This led the President to call in Senator Hale and Chairman Forst, of the Senate and House Naval Committees, and counsel with them, and the result was the course taken by Senator Hale's committee. The House Naval Committee is not expected to offer any opposition to the idea of a joint commission.

In its report the Senate Naval Committee provided that no part of the appropriations carried in the bill should be used to pay the expenses of any commission named by the President without the authority of Congress.

Of Little Consequence.

This, however, is of less consequence than it appears, for the reason the men the President called to serve on the commission he named on his own responsibility were serving without pay. This commission will shortly make a report, in which it will set forth the general principles that should govern navy reorganization.

It will then dissolve, and the commission authorized by Congress will be left to take the subject up. It is deemed likely, however, this report from the commission named by the President will attract widespread notice the country over, and will not be without its influence on the ultimate action of Congress for Navy Department reform.

Economy & Necessity.

From the Congress and the matter of economy in administration of the navy is the thing that looms up largest. But the naval officers who want reform view the military side of the navy organization as most important.

What they want is an organization that will make the best showing in case of war. That there will be strong pressure for a navy general staff from the committee is not doubted.

Pressure for the wiping out of some of the existing bureaus is more likely to come from Congress and any civilians who may be on the proposed commission.

NEAR CENTURY MARK AT DEATH

The body of Marvin Lincoln, who died Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bernard R. Green, 138 N. Street northwest, was forwarded today to Williamstown, Conn., where interment will be made tomorrow.

Mr. Lincoln was ninety-six years old, and the oldest member of the venerable Club of Windom, Conn., composed of men of seventy years of age and over. He was born in Williamstown, Conn., and was the son of Green and Herbert S. Lincoln, of New York.

CHANGING MINDS EASY WITH THESE

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 12.—Changing her mind after the marriage license had been issued and the wedding guests had assembled, Miss Mamie Edwards, the pretty daughter of Charles Edwards, who was to have been married last night to John Reed, of Isle of Wight county, jilted her fiancé to elope with Thomas Harris, a young farmer, who had himself out, recently been jilted by Miss May Atkins, who, in her turn, eloped with another man.

MONDAY MAY SEE FULL COOPER JURY

Examination of Sixth Venire for One Remaining Juror Begins.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 12.—The sixth venire, the last in the jury box, reported today in the trial of Col. Duncan B. Cooper, Robin J. Cooper, and John D. Sharp, charged with the murder of former Senator Edward W. Carmack, and when court opened the call began, and an effort was made to select the required one juror.

Despite the fact that the case has already dragged for three weeks, public interest has not abated, and the court room and galleries were filled to their capacity. Should the jury be completed today or tomorrow the taking of testimony will be begun Monday.

While some linking of the lines along which the State will build its case has been obtained from the motions for bail, the taking of testimony will furnish enlightenment on many things that now are mere conjectures and will reveal the defense by which the Coopers and Sharp will try to clear themselves.

GUINNESS CASE DISMISSED.

LA PORTE, Ind., Feb. 12.—Ray Lamp-here, convicted of arson in connection with the burning of the Guinness home in which Mrs. Guinness and her three children were cremated, will never again be tried in connection with the famous tragedies of murder-hill farm. State's Attorney Smith has dismissed the murder indictments against Lamp-here.

It is fitting that we honor the memory of the most Christ-like man of this decade. How alike—both made love their standard, both were revered by the common people, both were feared in high places, both lives were prematurely taken, both are now looked to as examples to emulate. Time has lifted the veil, and not only South and North, but the whole world see clearly now. Today we all revere the memory of Lincoln.
